2018 REPORT TO THE COMMUNITY

The Burke is on the move. This April, we started transporting millions of objects from the current facility to the New Burke. While the distance from here to there is short (just 480 feet), the effort is monumental. But our crew of staff and volunteers is undaunted, bringing dedication, ingenuity and good humor to the process.

As we look ahead to closing the current museum at the end of this year, I'm grateful that our research, education outreach and community partnerships take us everywhere. This year's report features dispatches from our curators' work in the field, highlighting how your support helps the Burke expand its reach, from the Northwest to the South Pole, mountain peaks to the deep sea.

With gratitude,
Julie K. Stein, Executive Director

FRONT: COLLECTING TROPICAL PEPPER PLANTS

Dear Burke Friends,

The thunderstorms continue. Parts of the station grounds are flooded, but we managed to get out last night and run some behavioral experiments on our target species, Carollia castanea, the chestnut short-tailed bat, as we continue our research on the coevolution between pepper plants and fruit bats. We collected many precious samples from pepper plants, and some bonus bats, including Ectophylla alba, a frugivorous Tent-making bat that looks like a cotton ball!

Dear Burke Friends,

It might look like vacation, but we're in Roatan, Honduras using the Idabel submarine to look for and collect new species of fishes from deep reefs down to 700 meters. Honduras means "deep water" - the drop-off is so close to the shore we can launch the submarine from a dock, and Idabel was custom-built for this location. We are also doing SCUBA dives to study an interesting species of goby (Risor ruber, the tusked goby) that lives in a commensal relationship with sponges.

Dear Burke Friends,
George Swanaset Sr. made the first cut in a massive cedar log provided by the Muckleshoot Tribe. He is replicating a 130 year old S. deXwit (River Hunting) canoe from our collection that was found in 1963 buried in the banks of the Green River. George is using a 3D printed model of the original as a reference while carving a new one. The technology and engineering of this canoe helped sustain Coast Salish people in hunting, fishing and traveling in the PNW's inland rivers. We look forward to celebrating its launch soon.

Dear Burke Friends
Hello from the 23rd annual Herbarium Foray. Our 26-person crew (ranging in age from 12 to 80 years) spent three days in the Elkhorn Mountains of northeastern Oregon, navigating alpine ridges, lakes, wet meadows, forested north slopes and dry, open south sides, to collect 1,800 specimens. The mosquitoes were terrible, but we had a record number of entries for the dessert contest. You win some, you lose some.

Dear Birds at the Burke,
We've moved! The weather is here, wish you were beautiful. Seriously though, it's REALLY nice over here. Cool breezes and wide open spaces... and we're getting to know our new neighbors. The humans in charge are using something they call the "most current understanding of phylogenetic relationships" to make room assignments, and we finally get to meet those nice birds from the University of Nevada Las Vegas who've been in temporary housing since 2012. We can't wait for you all to join us.

THE MARSHALL ISLANDS

FRONT: STICKCHARTS ARE AN ANCIENT WAVE-PILOTING TOOL

Dear Burke Friends,

Today I was sworn in as a member of the National Nuclear Commission of the Republic of the Marshall Islands. The commission pursues justice for nuclear testing conducted by the U.S. government from 1946-1958. I will work to connect the commission with UW public health resources, and local Marshallese students and community members. My fellow commissioners (including my friend Alson, pictured, who works to maintain the science of navigation and canoe building as tools of resilience) and I want to build the capacity of young Marshallese to own their history and future solutions for their people.

Dear Burke Friends,
As we move in to the New Burke,
I thought it would be interesting to look through my Registrar files for photos of our current building when it was the "New Burke." This facility opened in 1963 and was the first Permanent home for the museum—78 years after the Burke was founded. A bequest from the Thomas and Caroline Burke estate helped fund the construction, and thus we became the "Thomas Burke Memorial Washington State Museum." No wonder we go by "the Burke" these days!

HELLO FROM

Antarctica

FRONT: SHACKLETON GLACIER CAMP

Dear Burke Friends,

We returned to McMurdo last night after six weeks collecting fossils near Shackleton Glacier in Antarctica. Only three days cancelled due to weather.

I was worried the sites might have been picked over by previous expeditions, but we are coming home with more than 100 fossils - some we recognize, and some I think will be new species. We found enough well-preserved amphibians that we'll be able to tackle the question of what species lived in Antarctica after the Permo-Triassic mass extinction. Can't wait to get back to the lab!

BURKE MUSEUM FISCAL YEAR 2018

Period ending 6/30/2018

With the support of museum donors, visitors, partners, the University of Washington, and the State of Washington, the museum's financial health remained stable in fiscal year 2018. Capacity building for the New Burke resulted in anticipated expenses in excess of revenue. The deficit was funded by unrestricted reserves.
